

Crown Vetch

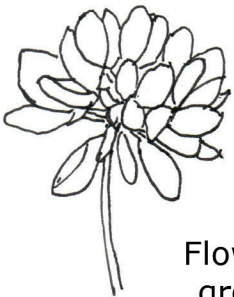

Securigera varia

Artwork by Carol Jean Rogalski

Dark green leaflets on both sides of the stem.

Creeps along the ground and covers large areas in patches.

Flowers are pinkish and grow in small clusters

Spreads quickly and is hard to kill, making it a threat to native plants.
It is also toxic to horses